PORTUGUESE IMMIGRATION.

EDITOR STAR: The Bulletin of last evening doubts Atkinson's conclusions and calls it hot air, but according to its own figures over 200 Portuguese left on the last Alameda and according to very reliable statements, over 500 more will soon leave.

If we understand right the emigration promoters will offer them larger pay. But they must understand that the wages is not the main object of their dissatisfaction and therefore $2 more will not induce them to stay. It is a home this people are looking for, and while there is no such thing in sight for them here under the present conditions of affairs, they are bound to leave and look for their great desire in another country. Therefore if you wish them to stay offer them homes suitable to establish themselves and become small farmers, but not as has been done, by offering them lands for homes where they will starve out in a year or two and have to go back to the plantations. There is where the rightfulness of these people comes and it only can be righted by giving them a fair chance.

KAMA'AINA.

NEW LAUNCH FOUNDERED.

A $3,500 steam launch of the Hawaii Sugar Co. founded near Akula point, Kaula, last week. It was brought from the Coast on the deck of the S. S. Nebraska which went from here to load sugar at Makaweli and Eleele.

The launch was put in the water at Eleele and started for Makaweli. It is supposed that it was swamped off Ukula point in heavy weather. Private wireless brought the news Saturday evening. Nothing was said of loss of life. The launch was lighter sugar to the big steamer.

AGENCY TRANSFERRED.

The agency for the Charles Brewer & Co.'s vessels has been transferred from C. Brewer & Co. to T. H. Davies & Co., this city. The bark Nuanu and Fooning Suey and ship Tillie B. Starbuck belong to the fleet.

MEDICAL BRANCH FOR STANFORD

BILL GIVING UNIVERSITY POWER TO CHARGE TUITION IN PROFESSIONAL COURSES.

(Special Correspondence).

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, March 9, 1907.—The California legislature has just passed, and Governor Gillet has signed, a bill giving Stanford University the power to charge tuition in the professional and engineering courses.

Heretofore no tuition whatever has been charged at Stanford University, this being the consideration upon which the University property and buildings were exempted from taxation. Although Stanford has the largest endowment fund of any university in existence, still the net income, all of which is applied for higher education, is not as large as it might be desirable to have it, and the present step has long been contemplated by the board of trustees as a means of obtaining additional funds. The step is not a radical one in view of the fact that the University of California and most American colleges have always charged special fees in the courses to which the bill applies.

The primary purpose of this bill is to assist in the establishment of a medical department, a measure long considered by the trustees. For a number of years there have been frequent rumors of the a. H. H. Cooper Medical College of San Francisco, the leading medical school of the Pacific Coast, with Stanford, and it is now believed that this will soon be consummated. The law department will also be directly benefited by the new measure. In this connection Dr. Jordan in reference to the bill said:

"It also permits a fee for instruction in law, a matter necessary to the full and proper development of a first-class law school. This the board of trustees intends to accomplish at once. Two new full professors will be appointed within the next month, and the law library will be made complete."

When this is done the law department, always recognized as one of the strong departments of Stanford, will be placed in the fore rank of American law schools. It is believed that the charging of tuition in the courses named will result in a still higher standard and greater efficiency than that which now characterizes Stanford, and that the students, also, will be benefited by it. No students at present in the University will be affected by the change as it is specially so provided; and moreover the remainder of the departments will remain on the same basis as heretofore.

The Stanford "Hui Hawaii" held its second meeting of the present year on the evening of March 8, Mr. and Mrs. Larnach acting as host and hostess.
